

INVEST IN WOMEN

Uhuru Spaces is an African global community. Creative specialists and software developers have founded, executed and fueled this initiative with investment to realise a collective mission: We help creative companies to gain traction, grow, and scale.

In order to accomplish this, the hiatus between the interests of a community of up-and-coming African content creators or coders and that of large corporates has been traversed. We've curated partnerships and deals for this talent via our network of corporate relationships, allowing us to allocate local skills to corporate partners.

Uhuru Spaces meetups in cities all over the world serve to keep adding value to this process quarterly. Moreover, actionable insights may be derived from these meetings to connect the African global community in the digital space. Via hosting masterclasses and workshops for our content creators, we guide our specialists into building viable business solutions so that they can contribute to the economy.

Invest in Women in Partnership with AfricaCom will be uniting female founders with a niche group of angel investors from across Africa, the global venture capital community, innovation partners and key government representatives.

We can hereby share information and guide the trajectory for early stage investment across the continent and the globe. These meaningful conversations will encourage a point towards a more integrated fusion of the African entrepreneurship ecosystem and bridge the gap between ideas and investments.

The three-hour session promises to connect accredited investors to your women owned start-ups and private companies for high level networking and deal-making to build successful ventures in these stages.
